"Leela has a thorough grasp of the talent market and its unique challenges stemming from her experiences at Lever and LinkedIn, while her current role at SurveyMonkey brings a wealth of knowledge from the marketing lens and as a newly public company leader. These factors combine to make her the ideal fit to help chart Upwork's future," said Stephane Kasriel, CEO of Upwork. "Beyond that, Leela is both strategic and detail-oriented. She is also connected to our mission, and more importantly, Leela is a wonderful leader who inspires our team. We are delighted that she agreed to join us."

Srinivasan currently leads all marketing functions at SurveyMonkey, including brand strategy, growth marketing, product marketing and communications. Before joining the global survey software leader in 2018, she served as CMO of Lever, where she was responsible for all aspects of marketing.

Additionally, Srinivasan served as director of marketing at LinkedIn within the Talent Solutions business, where she co-founded the Talent Connect conference, before moving on to become vice president of marketing at OpenTable.

"I am thrilled to join the board of directors at Upwork. Its product and mission resonate strongly with me on both a professional and personal level," said Srinivasan. "In business today, nothing drives success more than talent. Companies that display agility around talent - those that quickly identify and mobilize skilled talent to accelerate their progress - can gain a competitive edge. As a passionate advocate for diversity, inclusion and belonging, I also recognize Upwork's potential to level the playing field - to transform how businesses find talent and create new economic opportunities for people who might otherwise be passed over due to geography, or having a nontraditional background or a smaller network. I look forward to collaborating with the Upwork team to help shape the future of such an innovative company."
